Description

Another Time Past Created is a sumptuous distillation of the visual and written notebooks kept during a lifetime of travel by Australian photographer Brett Hilder. This unique and beautiful book is a poetic journal, a philosophical travelogue, an evocative photographic collection and a window into the mind of a creative and passionate artist.

It captures the rich experience of a journey through lands of Spanish culture in the Mediterranean and Latin America, and to Eritrea in Africa, as well as a meditation on the ties that bind him to his homeland of Australia.

A layered design recreates the intricate, collage nature of Brett's journals, where words, quotes from philosophers, poets and authors, ponderings, experiences, travel observations and astonishing photographs of landscapes and people are interwoven.

Author Profile

Brett Hilder is an Australian photographer, film maker and inveterate traveller whose work encompasses fashion, portraiture and landscape. In the 1960s and 70s, his distinctive fashion photography, portraying a sense of mystery and romance, appeared in magazines including Vogue and POL. In the mid-1970s, he lived and worked in London and Paris.

On his return to Australia, Brett extended his work into theatre and film and he has produced a film of the life of Mexican/Italian photographer Tina Modotti. Brett is based at Hill End in New South Wales and continues to travel frequently and far afield. Brett published The Sea of Chance (ISBN: 9781741960860) with Pier 9 in May 2008.
