Description

Pete Evans is a chef, restaurateur, television presenter and fisherman. He's also a man who believes entertaining should be as much fun for the cook as for the guests around the table. This collection of recipes is what Pete serves to family and friends at his own table – simply prepared, stylishly casual, unbelievably great food.

The way Pete Evans sees it, most of us eat three meals a day, which adds up to 1,000 meals a year, or about 75,000 meals in a lifetime. That's a lot of different choices for dinner. Here are some of those choices: chilli mud crab; zucchini flowers with salsa verde; pot-roasted chicken with tarragon gravy; steak sandwich with aioli; or huevos rancheros. Some are best eaten outside with friends and sand between your toes, others call for a tablecloth and great wine, but all are fresh, fast, unfussy and delicious. This is the ultimate guide to stress-free entertaining at home.

Photographed by renowned food and lifestyle photographer Anson Smart on location at Pete's idyllic weekend getaway and in studio, My Table will encourage even the most reluctant cook to share good food, easily prepared, with family and friends.
